

Review of: "Effects of Cinnamon on Cancer Prevention and Progression"

Martin Pěč<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Comenius University in Bratislava

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This complex review describes cinnamon's potential in cancer therapy and prevention. The given manuscript has well-organized content divided into 6 main parts. It reviews more than 90 articles, providing sufficient background for this study. The text is clear and easy to read, but I advise shortening or dividing some complex sentences. I recommend an English check for some minor spelling mistakes and grammar errors. For better visualization, the effects of different biologically active cinnamon compounds could be summed up in a table. I would also consider adding some schematic diagrams illustrating potential mechanisms of action. Otherwise, I have no major concerns or ethical concerns regarding this manuscript.