

Review of: "[Mini Review] Viburnum: an overview in relation to risks of allergy"

Rodrigo Barba-Gonzalez¹

¹ Centro de Investigación y Asistencia en Tecnología y Diseño del Estado de Jalisco

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The manuscript is a small review. It does not state the area of study, in which country it takes place. The reason why those species were selected is not explained, so it is confusing why the species described were selected.

Can you provide specific examples or contexts where the area of study and country are important for understanding the relevance of the research?

Could you elaborate on the potential consequences or gaps in the study due to the selection of only nine species out of the approximately 163 species mentioned?