Dear authors

Thank you for your valuable study, which clarified the high value of Yemeni almonds.

I have some comments, and please take them into consideration:

= Please mention the statistical analysis (L.S.D. or letters) in the table and show the significant differences between the cultivars in the same measured parameter (for example, when you say that this cultivar is better than another cultivar due to its content of fats, there should be a significant difference between their contents).

= Please check the suitable places for punctuation marks.

= Check the right English writing in your manuscript to appear more clear.

= Please find the detailed comments in their places in the manuscript in the attached file.

Thanks and best regards

Hend
