

Review of: "A Novel One-Pot Three-Component Approach to Orthoaminocarbonitrile Tetrahydronaphthalenes Using Triethylamine (Et₃N) as a Highly Efficient and Homogeneous Catalyst Under Mild Conditions and Investigating Its Anti-cancer Properties Through Molecular Docking Studies and Calculations"

Thayalaraj Christopher Jeyakumar¹

¹ The American College, Madurai

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This work was interesting using the MW irradiation method for synthesising Orthoaminocarbonitrile Tetrahydronaphthalenes. This has numerous advantages, including improved reaction conditions, environmental friendliness, lower costs, and solvent-free conditions. This manuscript has been very well explained. I think this manuscript should be published.