The work is good and it presents significant knowledge. The article is well-written, and the information is perfectly presented and reflects the objectives and outcomes. However, I suggest the following points:

1. In many places, references are required as in several paragraphs, there is various information that is presented but needs individual reference per each.
2. The discussion section is short and needs more details and information, including authors' views and conclusions.
3. I am not sure if using the possessive form is allowed in this journal, so editors can check, please.
4. I have uploaded a file with all my comments, so authors can use the tracking system to follow up on those assigned points.
