

Review of: "The Effects of Polypropylene Wastes on the Compressive Strength of Grade 25 Concrete"

Mini Remanan

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The effort of the authors to introduce polypropylene wastes in concrete is appreciated. It is appreciable that the authors are getting only a very small reduction in the compressive strength of cubes incorporating polypropylene wastes. But it is found that the grain size distribution of the fine aggregate is not as specified by ASTM C33/C33M-23, the Standard Specification for Concrete Aggregate.