

Review of: "Study of the Problems of Determining Public Opinion of the Israeli-Palestinian War in Social Networks"

Xiaoying Song¹

¹ University of North Texas

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper aims to identify, classify, and analyze public opinions, emotions, and attitudes that are expressed in comments on social networks during the Israeli-Palestinian War.

The paper reviews recent research, but there are too few references to be convincing.

In terms of the dataset, the paper only briefly mentioned the preparation of a dataset, but it is important to explain how to prepare and what the standards for preparation are for the reproducibility of the article.

The methods used in the paper are relatively independent of each other, have a low degree of structuring, and do not clearly explain why each method should be used. A comprehensive method framework should be constructed.