

Review of: "Shaping an Ethical Future: A Comprehensive Review of Child Ethics in a Global Context"

Swapan Kumar Patra¹

¹ Sidho-Kanho-Birsha University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Child ethics is a multifaceted field that requires a balanced approach among the rights and needs of children with the responsibilities of adults and society. It demands a nuanced understanding of children's development, autonomy, and the various factors influencing their lives.

Ethical considerations in this field aim to promote the best interests of children while respecting their individuality and rights.

Some key themes and considerations within child ethics may deal with Rights of the Child, Welfare and Well-being, Parental and Societal Responsibilities, Children's Capacity and Autonomy, Education and Development, Medical Ethics, Child Protection, Cultural and Contextual Considerations, Technology and Digital Media. Some of the important key themes may be discussed along the above-mentioned themes.

This research may use the Preferred Reporting Items for Systematic Reviews and Meta-Analyses (PRISMA) method. PRISMA is a set of evidence-based guidelines for reporting systematic reviews and meta-analyses.

In the conclusion section, the study focuses on religious teaching. Perhaps in the globalized world, the depth and breadth of religious teachings require further investigation.

To make it a full-length research paper, it needs to be framed in proper sequence.

Conclusion and contribution should be merged as 'concluding remarks.'