-This draft lacks consideration from the authors; it seems that the authors miss the basis of scientific writing, although this version is a revised version; they must pay more attention and consideration to it, where the current method of writing is so bad, starting from the statement of novelty. The text has a lot of non-understood sentences, poor sentences, unacceptable grammatical errors, and spelling errors, which were highlighted and corrected in the attached PDF copy of the manuscript. The authors must implement all these corrections carefully if they want to enhance their text.
