Review of: "Analyzing the Effects of Mobile Assisted Language Learning on Learner Autonomy: A Quasi-Experimental Study"

Noor Alhusna Madzlan[1]

1 Universiti Pendidikan Sultan Idris

The paper is well written. The objectives of the research are written explicitly. The problem statement is unclear. Elaborate further on why there is a need to study more on learner autonomy. The literature is current, and citations are relevant. The methodology is explained well. Despite the negative result, triangulation was used for the 1st research question. This can further justify the results from different sources of data, not just from the inferential analysis. Overall, the paper is a good contributor to the body of existing knowledge on learner autonomy and MALL.