

Review of: "Branching Markov Chains: Survival Thresholds and Applications to Species Navigation"

Mahmoud Iskandarani<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Al-Ahliya Amman University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Good effort, but more details are required with expanded mathematical modeling. More referencing is needed with some examples to prove the validity of the theorem. The survival theorems and probabilities are many, and any solution should take into account the surrounding environment, with many possible solutions correlated to the type of survival and level of survival. In addition, hostile parameters and predatory functions should be taken into consideration.