Good study, but it is recommended to authors to relook some of the points below.

1. Grammar ; Line 1 in introduction; Giardia intestinalis should be in italic
2. Method; Line 4, extra comma.
3. Acronym ART was not explained elsewhere.
4. Why patients came for stool examination was not explained, was it volunteer? Or referred by doctors for further investigation? If so, what was/were the presenting features?
5. When stool collection was done; how it was transported?
6. Bivariate analysis (chi square only); with more than 2 stratas in selected factors, in my opinion inadequate. Revised analysis are needed so that the factors can be identified clearly. I would suggest further analysis with multiple logistic regression.
7. Results were poorly presented, why authors selected only few factors..on what basis?
8. Results also were poorly discussed.
