Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

None of my previous comments was addressed by the authors, thus my judgment about the manuscript is not changed. Also, the English language and style were not improved at all.

Moreover, once defined at its first appearance, an acronym should be used throughout the text without defining it again. The authors added a sentence at the end of the introduction that substantially repeats the aim of the research, as stated a few rows before.

So, please refer to my previous review.
