Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The number of cultivars is not mentioned in the abstract, and their comparison is not done.

Capital keywords should be written.

It seems that macronutrients and micronutrients are not stated correctly.

The scientific name of the plant should be mentioned in the introduction.

The introduction has many mistakes and needs to be reread.

Titles should be written in a coherent way; some are repetitive.

The significance of the sample has not been mentioned, and their difference has not been determined statistically.

Suitable charts can be used instead of tables.
