

Review of: "Examining Water Use and Sanitation Practices in Rural Schools of Chegutu District, Mashonaland West Province, Zimbabwe"

Kebreab Ghebremichael¹

¹ University of South Florida

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The manuscript presented an important study on WASH practices in selected Rural high schools in Zimbabwe. It assessed the WASH situation based on surveys, interviews and observations and outlined some recommendations for improvement.

The research approach and results were presented clearly and recommendations can be useful for other schools.

There are important revisions that need to be made in the methods and discussion of results.

I have provided detailed comments in the attached manuscript. There are some grammar/spelling errors that are indicated in the attachment but I suggest that the author carefully review throughout the manuscript.