Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The manuscript is very short and requires additional information

2. The study should be started with an abstract, followed by introduction and other sections, and not written continuously

3. Additional studies about the side effects of the COVID-19 vaccine should be added to the introduction.

4. Study design should be mentioned.

5. More detailed information about these two studies should be included.

6. The conclusion of the study was not clear.

7. The number of references used was very low.
