First of all, I appreciate the efforts of the author(s). I think there is no novelty to the research idea. Further, the abstract needs to be stronger and more vibrant. There is poor citation style, a missing table caption, and low figure quality. At the very least, a comprehensive literature review and research gap should be presented for the work's intelligibility. There are a few grammatical errors that should be fixed, and the results and conclusions section is quite succinct and in need of further information. I think the paper should be rewritten as a whole.
