Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The manuscript is not completely technically sound.

In my opinion, the manuscript, in its present form, needs substantial revision.

The study is generally well performed without major errors. The writing is quite clear, the argument of the study is of potential interest, but the overall impression is that the manuscript, in its present form, lacks to approach the complexity of a study analyzing dosimetric parameters and results not completely technically sound.

The lack of attention to details weakens the study. I think that the authors should add some information and analysis to improve the work. Moreover, I suggest extending the bibliography.
